Rediscovering the Past: Sharing Lost Historic Images of Bellefield Office Park

Part of the fun of managing a property like Bellefield is the occasional treasure trove of old documents or archives you find while you're researching current property improvement projects. While working on some permits, we found an amazing hand drawn and colored map of the property from 1991. This map referred to Bellefield Office Park as Great Western as they were an investor in the Park at that time (right). We also uncovered, in some very old dusty cabinets in an old construction office, a very early black and white aerial map – marked from May 1973. It shows the park as it was when the only buildings on site were the current Courthouse, Cedar, Mastec and Goldsmith buildings (right). Last, we saw evidence of a dredge barge behind what will become the (former) AAA Building in the far SW corner of the Park (left), proving that Bellefield was not always its own island in the slough. Enjoy these archival photos and if you'd like a closer look, just call 425-289-4903.
